Data is at the heart of everything we do. Access to the right information is crucial when making effective business decisions. Our data gives our customers the edge they need to compete in their markets – either through the data itself or through products we develop that enable them to solve business issues.

We use a combination of market analysis and statistical modelling to create comprehensive and reliable data and information. We pride ourselves in bringing clarity to a market that can be complex and confusing and have built our business to be the best in our sector across Europe.

Today we offer products and solutions that are invaluable at every stage of a vehicle's lifecycle. From key valuation, technical and fleet management data, to estimating, bodyshop and dealer management systems and web-based services, we have the information that the industry relies on.

Above all else, we are in business to support, advise, enable and benefit our customers. Our customers are our reason for being, their success is our success.
